HMO guidance

Due to the nature of houses of multiple occupancy, it is important to reduce the spread of infection within the property as much as possible. As facilities are often shared such as kitchens and bathrooms it is important these areas are cleaned frequently along with other high touch points such as light switches, door handles etc.

When an occupant has symptoms or is a confirmed case within your property the following should be implemented. The occupant should if possible use separate facilities or, alternatively, consider drawing up a rota so that they use the facilities last, before thoroughly cleaning prior to other occupants using the facilities.

They should avoid using shared spaces such as kitchens whilst others are present. Take their meals back to their room to eat. Use a dishwasher (if available) to clean and dry used crockery and cutlery. If this is not possible, wash them by hand using detergent and warm water and dry them thoroughly, using a separate tea towel.

This advice should also be followed particularly stringently for anyone who has been identified as clinically vulnerable, as defined in the government guidance: https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/staying-alert-and-safe-social-distancing/staying-alert-and-safe-social-distancing

It should also be followed regardless of symptoms or test results by people who have been identified as extremely vulnerable and so have been advised to shield, as per this guidance: <a href="https://www.gov.uk/government/publications/guidance-on-shielding-and-protecting-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerable-persons-from-covid-19/guidance-on-shielding-extremely-vulnerabl

Contractors working within a property

During this pandemic you will still have a duty to ensure your property is maintained and repairs and testing of appliances is carried out.

In order to assist you with this please see the government guidance relating to individuals working in other people's homes.

Legionella risks during the coronavirus outbreak

Building closure or reduced occupancy can increase the risks of Legionnaires' disease.

Employers, the self-employed and people in control of premises, such as landlords, have a duty to identify and control risks associated with legionella.

If your building was closed or has reduced occupancy during the coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak, water system stagnation can occur due to lack of use, increasing the risks of Legionnaires' disease. This may particularly affect:

- Hot and cold water systems
- Cooling towers and evaporative condensers
- Commercial spa pools and hot tubs

For detailed guidance on Legionella and safer working during the coronavirus outbreak visit the HSE website.

Ban on Evictions extended

Renters across England and Wales will receive greater protection after the government extended the suspension of new evictions until 23 August.

The extension was announced by the Housing Secretary on 5 June 2020

Suspension of evictions from social or private rented accommodation extended by 2 months

• New court rules will ensure vulnerable renters will be protected when the suspension of evictions ends

• Government committed to ensuring that no one is evicted from their home this summer due to coronavirus.

Mandatory five-year electrical safety check regulations

The new Electrical Safety Standards in the Private Rented Sector came into force from 1 June 2020. (MHCLG withdrew the revised guidance and reinstated the original guidance 19 June 2020)

All new private tenancies in England will need to ensure that electrical installations are inspected and tested by a qualified person before the tenancy begins. The landlord will then need to ensure that the installation is inspected and tested at least every five years – and more often if the most recent safety report requires it.

For existing tenancies, an electrical safety test will need to be carried out by 1 April 2021, with regular tests following this as outlined above.

Local authorities can impose a financial penalty of up to £30,000 for a breach of the regulations. Where there are multiple breaches, the local authority can impose multiple penalties.

NAPIT have also produced some useful guidance in PDF form.

The Homes (Fitness for Human Habitation) Act 2018

The Homes (Fitness for Human Habitation) Act 2018 has been applicable to all periodic tenancies in England since March 2020.

The Act originally came into force on 20 March 2019 (see explanation below)

This legislation states that all rented properties must be 'fit for habitation', which means that they are safe, healthy and free from things that could cause serious harm.

If rented houses and flats are not 'fit for human habitation', tenants can take their landlords to court. The court can make the landlord carry out repairs or put right health and safety problems. The court can also make the landlord pay compensation to the tenant.

The full guidance can be read here

From 20 March 2019

From 20 March 2019, anyone who signs a new tenancy agreement for a home, either the one they are currently living in, or a new home, or anyone whose tenancy becomes a periodic tenancy on or after 20 March 2019, can use the Homes Act. This includes tenants who sign tenancies of shorter than 7 years.

From 20 March 2020

After 20 March 2020, everyone who has a secure or assured tenancy, or a statutory tenancy, or a private periodic tenancy, can use the Homes Act regardless of when their tenancy began. Anyone who is still on the fixed term of a private tenancy that began before 20 March 2019 cannot use the Act until the end of that fixed term.

Right to Rent scheme

The Court of Appeal has delivered its verdict on a High Court decision that, until now, had held that the Right to Rent scheme was discriminatory and in breach of the European Convention on Human Rights (ECHR). The Secretary of State for the Home Department v. The Queen on the Application of the Joint Council for The Welfare of Immigrants [2020] EWCA Civ 542

The Court of Appeal agreed with the Judge in the earlier judgment: prospective tenants who did indeed have the right to rent, but who did not have a British passport, had been subject to discrimination by their landlords. This discrimination, on the basis of the applicants' actual or perceived nationality, would not have occurred were it not for the Right to Rent scheme.

However, the Court highlighted that, on the whole, the scheme could be, and often was, effectively implemented by private landlords without using discriminatory measures such as demanding a British passport.

Crucially, the Court of Appeal focused on the legislative objective of the Right to Rent scheme: to discourage certain patterns of unlawful immigration. Taking into account that the scheme could be implemented without discrimination, the Court of Appeal decided that the scheme was a proportionate means of achieving its objective. In other words, discrimination resulting from the Right to Rent scheme can be justified, given the political objectives of the legislation.

Tenant Fees Ban

The fees ban legislation went live on 1st June 2019, but only applied to tenancies started after that date, and renewals. From 1 June 2020 it also applies to all tenancies, regardless of when they started.

Landlords and their agents will not be able to charge any of their tenants prohibited fees including for checkins and check-outs, referencing, viewings, inventories, securing guarantors and property cleaning.

Please read the full guidance to ensure you are you compliant.

Court of Appeal ruling on S21 possession orders

The Court of Appeal has handed down its judgment in the case of Trecarrell House Limited v Rouncefield (B5/2019/0499).

In a 2 to 1 decision the Court of Appeal has ruled that late service of a gas safety certificate does not prevent a landlord from serving a section 21 notice on their tenant provided the certificate has been given to the tenant before service of the section 21 notice.

The Court of Appeal's decision has gone some way to clarifying the problematic points of law in this area but no doubt this will not be the last of the cases on these issues. For now, the importance of carrying out gas safety inspections, retaining records and providing certificates to tenants cannot be underestimated.

Energy Performance Certificates

The Energy Efficiency (Private Rented Property) (England and Wales) Regulations 2015 prohibits the letting of a property where the EPC indicates a rating is F or G (unless an exemption applies). This now applies to all tenancies from 1st April, 2020. You will be committing an offence if you let the property without improvements after this date.

Modern Day Slavery

Modern Day Slavery unfortunately does still happen. Read this article regarding a landlord who targeted vulnerable individuals and was found guilty of six offences of requiring another person to perform forced or compulsory labour.

Landlord found guilty of operating without a HMO license

The case is the first of its kind in Coventry, whereby a landlord has been ordered to give back around  $\pounds 10,982.25$  in rent that was paid by tenants while the landlord was operating without a licence. Read the full article here.

Under the amendments to the Housing Act 2004, introduced in October 2018, a HMO must be licenced if it is occupied by five or more people who form more than one
